

*Research Ethics for All:
Accessible Research Ethics Education for Community
Research Partners*

Written Training

Introduction

Welcome to Research Ethics for All, an Accessible Research Ethics Education training for Community Research Partners. You are taking this training because you are a community research partner on a research study or because you are learning more about research.

When we do research, there are important responsibilities to keep people in research safe and respect their rights. Research ethics help us do this! This training includes units on important ways to keep people in research safe and respect their rights. After each unit you will talk with your team about the ideas in the unit and do activities to help you learn even more. We hope you enjoy learning about research ethics and feel prepared for your role as a community research partner after taking Research Ethics for All.
